What is gambling?

Gambling is the act of risking money or something of value on an activity with an uncertain outcome.

What is problem gambling?

Problem gambling is any gambling behavior that has a negative effect on your life and the lives of people close to you— parents, siblings, and friends.

Can adolescents be problem gamblers?

Anyone who gambles can develop a gambling problem. Approximately 2 out of 3 adolescents gamble.

What are some of the warning signs?

Believing that betting is a fast and easy way to make money.

An increase in arguments with family and friends about gambling.

Pawning or selling personal and/or family possessions for gambling money.

Overly interested in how teams or athletes perform.

Unexplained absences from school and drop in grades.

Becoming overly upset at conclusion of sporting match.

Bragging about winnings.

Having an intense interest in gambling conversations.

Playing gambling type games on the internet.

Having unexplained debts, large amounts of cash, and/or new items (such as new clothes or jewelry).

When does gambling become a problem?

When you spend more time or money gambling than you intended.

When you gamble to win back money or possessions you lost.

When gambling makes you feel badly.

When you begin to lie to yourself and others about gambling.

When you want to quit gambling and you don't know if you can.

When you hide your gambling habits from your friends and family.

When someone tells you that you may have a gambling problem.

When you borrow money to gamble that you are unable to pay back.

The facts:

Problem gambling behavior exists in 6-20% of the adolescent (ages 12-19) population.

Adolescents are 2 to 4 times more likely than adults to have this problem.

Social gambling can quickly move to problem gambling.

Wagering is thought of as an adult privilege; therefore, adolescents are more susceptible to developing this behavior.

A gambling disorder is just as serious as a drug addiction.
